

A new addition in Patient Centered Care

Introducing...

“Real time video conferencing with the ones you love”

from

Hospice families and friends are often unable to travel to visit their terminally ill loved ones for many reasons including financial hardships, work commitments, and family conflicts. Besides guilty feelings, these families are usually conflicted and saddened by their inability to be present with someone in their last weeks or months.

Because we appreciate how valuable it is to make a connection, Face2Face Technologies has developed a simple, low cost video conferencing service available to Hospice organizations around the country. With your coordination, you can now offer personal and secure video conversations utilizing state of the art video conferencing technology.

Face2Face offers your patients and families:

- the ability to see and talk with family members that are unavailable to travel.
- the joy of watching loved ones interact during conversations with distant family or friends.
- the unique opportunity to have a face-to-face conversation at a cost comparable to a monthly cell phone.

We provide everything to make the conversation easy and non-technical. Our specially configured laptop computers, complete with an independent broadband internet connection, are designed to make the most of their video experience. Everything comes in one complete package. In addition to the technical know-how, we provide personal, individualized support to ensure that your patient and families have the experience they deserve.

Consider Face2Face as part of your Hospice care. Your patients and families will appreciate the additional value offered.
